Lori, here are the language tweaks to address the items we discussed. First, they are shown as yellow highlighted inserts/strikeouts below. Second they are shown in the context in EPA's March 19, 2013 working draft of Section 4.

Page 4-28: Other types of spills include aviation fuel, diesel, Bunker C fuel, gasoline, asphalt, lube oil, hydraulic fluid, crude oil, sandblast grit, scrapping wastes, ballast/bilge water, waste oil, and generator fuel.

Pages 4-6 to 4-7: The information presented in the ~~eis report~~ site summaries is primarily based on publicly available documents; a full list of all sources of information relied upon is provided in each site summary. Information in these the site summaries ranges widely in the scope, detail of information, and time frames. The accuracy of the information in the site summaries has not been assessed by EPA, nor has the EPA conducted any independent work to evaluate or verify the information presented.

The two areas of change shown in context:

Let me know at your convenience if this works.

Thank you,
